

Broken by bullying, Tabitha volunteers and finds just what she needs to mend her life. Being bullied has always been part of Tabitha Cockell's life. Since first grade her tormentor, Amelia, has hounded her with cruel taunts, name-calling and nasty rumors both face to face and online. She attempts suicide, but is saved in the nick of time by the guy she has just started dating after he reads her suicide note on Facebook. Survival means she has to face life, but she doesn't know how until she sees a crew of State Emergency Service volunteers at work. She finds the courage to join, and her decision soon has her seeing and understanding life from a whole new perspective.
