

This book is about the incredible similarities between many professing Christians in America and our neighbors in other parts of the world who claim Allah is God and Mohammed his prophet. There is a growing war between the two, while both are basically saying the same thing. Who was this mystic and very gifted man named Mohammed? Millions of people consider him to be the greatest mind among all the sons of Arabia. When he appeared, Arabia was a desert - a nothing. Out of this nothing a New World was fashioned by the spirit of this one man - a new culture, a new civilization, a new kingdom extended from Morocco to Indies, influencing the thought and life of three continents, Asia, Africa and Europe. There comes an incredible wonder and joy when we stop feeling threatened by people who have a different worldview than we've been trained to have. If we'll be willing to put aside our indoctrination and prejudices, be open and teachable - then we'll discover a faith that is real; one that will sustain us through every storm of life. We will also find the key that will free us from the fear of death.
